

The Most Common Type of Nursing Home Problem

Nursing home deficiencies are ranked on a scale of A to L, with L being the most severe. Deficiencies are categorized into three levels of severity: Not in immediate jeopardy, Immediate jeopardy, and Potential for more than minimal harm.

No actual harm or potential for more than minimal harm

Potential for more than minimal harm